

ACADEMIC RESULTS 2018

Every full diploma student takes 6 courses, each of which is graded from 1 to 7, 7 being the highest score. Students can also earn up to an additional 3 points from their Theory of Knowledge work combined with their Extended Essay. The maximum number of points, therefore, is 45. 24 is the minimum number of points required to pass the diploma, though certain technical 'failing conditions' can result in a student with this minimum number of points still failing to be awarded the diploma. The most important of these is the failure to obtain a minimum of 12 points from the three Higher Level subjects.

The following data summarises our results. Figures for previous years are provided for comparison.

The two highest scoring candidates were Vassiliki Gini and Debbie Kavouna, who scored 44 points. Both will be continuing their studies in University College, London (UCL), the former reading Mathematics and the latter Economics.

Four more students scored 40 points or over; they were Danai Athanasoula (UCL – Social Sciences), Alice Germanacos (UCL – Anthropology), Laoura Karanikoli (Dundee – Medicine) and Myrto Rozaki (East London – Acting).

Scoring just one point shy of 40 were Maria Darivaki (King's College, London – Politics) and Eleonora di Giorgi (Birmingham – Chemical Engineering).

Congratulations are due to the whole graduating class and to their teachers for maintaining the school's excellent record at IB: these splendid results are a deserved reward for a great deal of hard work.
